

HATES BIG SLEEVES

HOW THEY RAISED AN ALARM ON THE WEST SIDE.

G. R. Rowley Calls Out the Police and His Neighbors to Assist in the Search for His Wife Who He Alleged Had Died from Heart Failure—The Search is Kept Up for Hours and the Party are About to Examine the River, when by Accident They Inquired of a Dressmaker and Found the Lost Woman.

"Send a policeman over here to help me!"

The above was a telephone message received Thursday night at the police station. The man sending the message was Benjamin Franklin Drapper, the metropolitan policeman who has charge of that portion of the city of Wichita from 12 o'clock during the day until 12 o'clock at midnight.

"What is the matter?" asked the night watch as he recognized from the trembling voice of his brother officer that something unusual had transpired. "A woman is lost. She has heart disease, and it is believed by her husband that the woman is dead. Her husband is frantic, and I have warned out the entire neighborhood. Tell the officer to bring a lantern as it would be impossible to find her body without we have some light."

Officer Purby was sent to assist in the search, and upon his arrival he found the entire populace ready for the great search. Purby at once assumed command and divided the searchers into squads, giving each party a lantern. But before starting the frantic husband, G. R. Rowley, was placed on the witness stand to give what information he might throw upon the subject. He was, when he first came to the police station, with his face as pale as death, he said:

"I was sitting in the room reading the Eagle and the baby was playing about the floor. All at once the baby began to cry and without looking up I told my wife that she had better take the baby. You see I thought the poor woman was tired. The baby began to cry more than ever and I looked up and found that Mary was gone. I went to the door and called, but no answer came. The baby began squalling in dead earnest and with the child in my arms I began to hunt her. She was nowhere to be found. About ten years ago she had some trouble with her heart, and she thought came to me that probably she had died with heart failure. I had been reading about persons dying suddenly and I became convinced that I called on the neighbors and they could give me information. I have searched for an hour but can learn nothing. I know she is dead and I expect I had better telegraph for her folks. Oh, God, this is more than I can bear!" and the man burst into tears.

Johnny Hollinger, C. B. Campbell, Robert Holden, Hazel Strouss and H. A. HEN were selected as captains with the two officers to take charge of searching parties.

Every alley, street, stable, barn and vacant lot was examined. In fact, a stranger might have taken the search for a regular patrol or town light procession as the different parties gathered at the Coleman corner grocery store to make their reports. There were men, women, boys, girls and dogs in the party, and Commander Purby told the captain to give an account of where he had been. "This was done when someone suggested that the river and the woods should be searched."

"Well, Mary is dead, that is certain," said Rowley, who had a broken heart, and he was relieved of the child which he had carried all the time, by a woman who had joined the party. "I will go and telegraph the folks."

"No you wait, I have been to all the neighbors but one, a dressmaker who lives up stairs in this block."

"I bet a box of stove blacking that your wife is at the dressmaker's. Why in thunder didn't you go there before you asked me a fuss as this?" said the ex-commander.

"There was no use to do that. My wife has her dress cut, and I know she did not go there," said the husband.

"We will see," said Hill, and suiting the action to the word the ex-commander to the dressmaker, where he found Mrs. Rowley engaged in studying the mysteries of cutting "mutton legged" sleeves.

SANG OLD CONFEDERATE SONGS

Unique Meeting of Ex-Rebels Takes Place at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 12.—The audience last night at Music Hall were in fancy transported for two hours into the sunny land of cotton by the unique character of the program, and an entertainment gotten up for the purpose of aiding in the purchase of additional ground for the Confederate burying lot in London Park.

Familiar old plantation songs were sung in chorus and played by a military band, but the energetic "Johnny Reb" who got up the program were determined to give a rare treat to themselves and those of their comrades who were fortunate enough to listen to the entertainment. So they put "Dixie" on the program in four or five places. "Dixie" was sung in a variety of ways, and by a variety of groups.

On the program in four or five places "Dixie" was sung in a variety of ways, and by a variety of groups. The program was a success, and the audience was greatly entertained.

LITTLE TOWNS, TOO

PROHIBITION STRUGGLE NOT CONFINED TO THE CITIES.

Reports Made to a Prohibition Organ at Topeka Show that Even the Mere Hamlets are Kept Perpetually Fighting the Battle in Many Places the Authorities are in Sympathy with the Liquor Traffic and in One Case Anti-Prohibition has Crept into the Church—Story of Martin and Dick Blue.

Topeka, Kan., Dec. 13.—(Special.)—If the prohibitionists fear the organization of the Mystic Brotherhood they do not show it. That they have cause to fear it there is no doubt. If their own testimony is to be taken as good.

There is a paper here known as the Kansas Temperance Monitor. Few people see it. Among other things, this week this paper has a report from several small towns in Kansas, relating the condition of Prohibition in the several places. Most of these towns are very small. But in the report sent to the Monitor, nearly every town shows that there are joints, or that joints have just been closed up, or that the druggists or clubs are violating the law.

Of course such a demonstration of failure after fifteen years trial does not bear the prohibitionists from declaring the law a success. But the report in a Prohibition organ, collected by its own agents probably biased as usual, showing the plain fact that even in the hamlets of Kansas the law is violated, is food that the anti-prohibitionists will greedily devour. Here are some of the reports published:

Stockton. Prosecution has been commenced against a troublesome joint keeper who will be tried at the January term of court. Meanwhile an injunction has been served upon him compelling him to desist before his case is heard in the district court.

The election of sheriff in Rooks county was a victory for the cause of Prohibition. The friends of law and order are encouraged at the outlook.

McLouth. Early in October the citizens organized a Law and Order league called upon the county attorney and sheriff to take hold of the business of closing the joints, and already they have secured twenty-five counts against one, thirteen against another and a smaller number against two or three others.

Some of the offenders have left town, and their friends are putting the usual plea for leniency in their behalf, but the league is determined that the law shall be properly vindicated and the prescribed penalties inflicted.

Mound City. No joints or saloons. One drug store with permit. Some drunkenness on the Missouri border. County attorney not in sympathy with prohibition. City authorities have not much occasion for diligence. Prohibition is on top here.

Morland. Have one joint. Citizens indifferent or afraid to take hold of the matter. County attorney also indifferent. Officials are not doing their duty. The condition of things has been growing worse during the year. We need a temperance revival.

Mahaska. No joints or whisky drug stores. It is believed that a drinking club exists but nothing is allowed to appear openly. Being near the Nebraska border liquor can easily be obtained. Some anti-prohibition sentiment even in the churches.

Lawrence. No saloons. Very few joints where liquor is illegally sold. The present city officers, backed by a good citizenship league, have cleaned out nearly every joint in town. With the prohibitory law well enforced Lawrence is a clean city.

Tonganoxie. No saloons. Two or three joints where liquor is secretly sold, but even these are being besieged and it is hoped will soon be entirely gotten rid of. Justice Pearson is in the town in his effort to clean the town of the lawless element, and in this effort he is backed up by the best citizens of the place.

Open Elmer. No joints or saloons. No drug stores. Some secret selling, but very little. The drug stores are not doing their duty. The condition of things has been growing worse during the year. We need a temperance revival.

St. Louis. A drug store with a permit is believed to be selling illegally and a German restaurant keeper is suspected of selling slyly. But everything is kept in a very tight rein. There is a good Law and Order league and also a vigorous W. C. T. U. County officials are anti-prohibition.

Downs. No open joints but the drug stores are secretly selling more than the law contemplates. The drug stores have not forgotten or forgiven the great defeat they suffered two or three years ago at the hands of John A. Murray.

When Rev. S. E. Betts, the representative of the State Temperance union, addressed a meeting of the day, he was very warmly received by the audience and his friends got up an opposition meeting in the shape of a drama, presented by home talent, hired a brass band, and in every possible way tried to hinder the success of the meeting.

Greenleaf. There is much rejoicing among the friends of prohibition here because George Dean, who for a long time has been a thorn in the side of the temperance people, has been convicted in eleven counts, and has a fair chance to pay a heavy fine and spend nearly a year in jail. Motion has been made for a new trial, but with what success we have not learned.

Blue and Martin. The Kansas City Times prints the following from Atchison: Two Kansans never acquired greater fame in brief time, in new roles than Congressman Dick Blue and Chief Justice David Martin. The impetuous Blue was the first man in the present congress to address and gain recognition of the chair, and all the world knows it today. Justice Martin reversed a decision of his predecessor on the conditions

In some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil is rapid. For this reason we put up a 50c. size, which is enough for an ordinary cough or cold or useful as a trial for babies and children.

In other conditions gain must be slow, sometimes almost imperceptible, health can't be built up in a day. For this Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment, food rather than medicine, food prepared for tired and weak digestions.

GIRL'S HEART WAS BROKEN. Stark Mad the Starts Barreled in the snow After Her Lover.

Norristown, Pa., Dec. 12.—Believing he had come in contact with an actual barbed-ghost, that flitted through the snow at 4 o'clock this morning, clad only in a night robe, Joseph D. Pennick of Centre Square, an early morning dealer in produce in the Norristown market, was confronted instead by a man whose face was greatly disfigured, who had escaped from the Charity hospital. It was not yet daylight when the shivering creature appeared before him on Swede street, near the Norristown City cemetery, and both Pennick and his horse were greatly startled, but the farmer was convinced the next instant that it was no wraith he looked upon with his bare feet in the snow, with teeth chattering and frame shivering, the pitifully exclaimed: "Take me home."

The almost nude and half-frozen young woman was promptly wrapped in a buffalo robe and lifted into the wagon. Then Pennick drove as rapidly as possible to the Market House hotel where his charge was provided with clothing and an officer summoned.

Pennick's condition this evening was better than at any time since her admission to the hospital.

Justice—How so?

Prisoner—I was full of hops. Justice (sternly)—Thirty days in jail and $100 fine, with the costs of court.—Judge.

Man's Self-Sacrifice. Wife—Before we were married you used to write me letters eight and ten pages long. Now, when you go away, you just send me little notes of half a page.

Husband—Um—my dear, I am—trying to economize on letter paper, so as to have more money for my little ducky darling to spend.
